MUSEUM LECTURE April 13, 8:30 p.m.

Dr. James R. Johnson, Associate Curator of Education at The Cleveland Museum of Art, will discuss ARCHITECTURE AND NATURAL LIGHT this coming Wednesday evening, April 13 at 8:30 in the Museum's auditorium. The lecture replaces the formerly scheduled talk by artist Richard Lindner.

Dr. Johnson also presented this subject earlier in the year at Harvard University's symposium on LIGHT AS A CREATIVE MEDIUM, arranged by Gyorgy Kepes. He stresses the important effects of natural light on architecture, using examples of both modern and historic structures.
